

ASIA-PACIFIC STRATEGY: EARNINGS REVISIONS LEADING INDICATOR (ERLI)

Aug '26 pulse check: ERLI Continues to Project Slower Earnings Upgrades

Earnings Revisions Leading Indicator (ERLI)

ERLI signals sustained earnings upgrades, but at a moderating pace

In July, consensus earnings upgraded at a slower pace, rising +3.1% month-on-month (MoM) and +10.3% over three months. Our ERLI model continues to forecast that future upgrades will slow amid softer activity data. China's both official manufacturing and non-manufacturing PMIs slipped into contraction territory (<50) in July, dragged down by the new orders sub-index. Korea's July exports growth moderated to 62.8% from 70.7% the prior month, although it exceeded both consensus and our expectations. Taiwan's manufacturing PMI eased slightly to 55.1 in July, yet continues to signal solid expansion underpinned by new export orders. In commodities, the S&P GSCI index rallied 10% on renewed geopolitical risk premiums in crude oil. Given the Red Sea tensions, our commodity team keeps their 2026Q4 Brent forecast unchanged at $80, assuming deescalation by Q4, while flagging upside price risks.

North Asia maintains upgrade leadership despite slowing momentum

While regional earnings momentum remains positive, our earnings revision leading indicator (ERLI) indicates a moderating upgrade trajectory due to slowing macroeconomic activity. Korea's earnings upgrades should persist, though at softer pace given weaker manufacturing PMI expansion and decelerating DRAM price growth and export growth. Taiwan's pace of earnings upgrades are also set to slow as manufacturing PMIs temper, despite resilient June industrial production. In China, earnings revisions may remain muted amid contracting manufacturing activity and sluggish domestic demand growth. Hong Kong's earnings revisions face headwinds from weaker PMIs and an 8% YoY decline in Macau's gross gaming revenue (GGR). ASEAN markets' earnings revision may remain weak, reflecting sustaining weak retail sales notably led by Thailand and Indonesia. Australia's earnings revisions may face downside risks from falling iron ore prices and weaker than expected inflation. Finally, amid the manufacturing PMI hitting a five-year low, India continues to face downside risks to corporate earnings despite improvement in consumption activities.

As an example, certain clients may request to receive notifications when research on specific securities is published, and certain clients may request that specific data underlying analysts' fundamental analysis available on our internal client websites be delivered to them electronically through data feeds or otherwise. No change to an analyst's fundamental research views (e.g., ratings, price targets, or material changes to earnings estimates for equity securities), will be communicated to any client prior to inclusion of such information in a research report broadly disseminated through electronic publication to our internal client websites or through other means, as necessary, to all clients who are entitled to receive such reports.

All research reports are disseminated and available to all clients simultaneously through electronic publication to our internal client websites. Not all research content is redistributed to our clients or available to third-party aggregators, nor is Goldman Sachs responsible for the redistribution of our research by third party aggregators. For research, models or other data related to one or more securities, markets or asset classes (including related services) that may be available to you, please contact your GS representative or go to <https://research.gs.com>.
